

NOTE:
WEDNESDAY
THIS MONTH

Please join us for our monthly meeting

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 2014

Topic of the month:

COLLABORATE WITH CROWDSOURCING

The Center for Excellence in Disaster Management & Humanitarian Assistance in partnership with UH-NDPTC unveils the crisis preparedness collaboration tool that gives a crowdsourced aggregate picture of disaster management and first response training events in the Asia-Pacific region using the Ushahidi platform. Ushahidi is a global non-profit technology company with origins in Kenya. It develops open source crowdsourcing and mapping software used by disaster responders, human rights activists, conservationists, and election monitor. The CFE-NDPTC joint project aims to help planners and funders make faster and more accurate decisions about crisis preparedness training. It also improves coordination between disaster management training organizations, creating a strong and effective community of disaster responders.

4:30	Presentation and discussion
5:00	Networking and pau hana

We will provide light pupu's and refreshments.

If you cannot make the presentation, you are encouraged to attend the pau hana to network with our staff, our instructors and our partners.

If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact Marge Porter

@ maporter@hawaii.edu

National Disaster Preparedness Training Center • NDPTC

828 Fort Street Mall • Suite 320 • Oceanit Center

Honolulu, Hawaii 96813 • 808.956.0600